FOREWORD

Hello everyone and a warm welcome into this Spring-edition Hastueel! Long have you waited for it, but here it is, better than ever. Just as the weather, we are awakening from our winter slumber and exit our winter den to deliver this fantastic piece of writing. Why is it so fantastic you ask? Well, a lot has happened in the last couple of months actually and we are very keen to tell you all about it. Two costume events happened that I hope all of you participated in - the Stropdassen Carnival in Eindhoven and of course the best tournament of the year, the Ha-Stu toernooi. The bees were bij and the rockets were glittery. We have observed everything that happened of course and wrote down the most entertaining parts for you to relive.

Of course, a Spring-edition Hastueel would be incomplete without our mandatory food reviews. They are heavy on the lentils, but as we go into lente this fits very well (this was 1000% planned). Because every dinner needs a dessert, we tasted some paasij & paasei for you so that you can go into the Easter weekend and know which eggs are the best. Some very valuable knowledge. Of course, this is accompanied with a quiz - which paasei ben jij? Because we all need to know what kind of egg we actually are. As they say "You are what you eat". Don't miss the every present wist-jedatjes and the ever-silly Hastu memes.

Leaving behind winter depression,

Hastueel Chairwoman Anna

#NOFILTER LENTIL SOUP

Midwinter, the 31st of January, there was a new Hastueel meeting. And a new meeting screams for a new food review. What did we make this time? Something hot and steamy of course. We made some really nice Moroccan lentil soup that barely fit in DJ's pan. We rasped some ginger (you all think you have to say grated, but rasped is also correct English hoor), some garlic and chopped some onions. Also some other ingredients and we let that steam for a bit. You also put in the steeltjes from the parsley, which you want to keep together. How do you keep them together, you think? Well for exactly this you have dental floss, you just tie a nice knot and that will kind of work.

The nice thing about this soup is that you don't even have to stamp/mix it. You just have to let it pruttel, you can even use it as a curry! So if all those flavors are infiltrated in the soup, you do get a really nice bowl of veggies. We asked the reviewers how they would score it on a scale from however you like it and this were the reviews:

- Isa: 7,9/10; ik vond vooral de wortel lekker
- Anna: very flavourful for a dutch recipe (says the German)
- Vera: prima maar ik ga ooit vergeten dat ik t heb gegeten
- Laura: 7/10
- Eva: 8/11
- Bente: ik vond het oke dat ik thuis had gegeten

Well, hope you have some new food inspiration for the wintery days (which will almost be over when you read this). But still, some warm soup/curry never hurts anybody, just like tomatoes, they also don't hurt you.

HA-STU TOURNAMENT RECAP

The Ha-Stu tournament was a great success again. A lot to discuss, but let's begin at the wodka shower in which some brave Hastuids participated. For some of us this was the first time and for some of us this was their 100th time. If you have never been to a wodka shower, here is a brief summary of this edition. This wodka shower included a lot of singing and drinking (of course), but also vacuumgezogen ping-pong balls in belly buttons and a whole queue of dinosaur sweets on the walls. At least, this is how it went in the ladies shower; the only thing this reporter knows from the gents their wodka shower is that it was nice that Hendrik could sleep at Menno's place (also together with Lou and Jorik, Menno is very hospitable) and that Lars had a fun but tough time, but he somehow did make it till the end of the tournament party. He was such a good boy that he even helped the toeco and some other warriors to clean the toilets at 4 am. Very impressive.

Well, let's move on. The party was great, everyone had a lot of fun in their glitterrocket. We saw some fantastic aliens who partied all night long. The glitter you can maybe still spot on the floor of the cultuurcafe, although not allowed (foei foei people that fired a glittergun), still proves that it was a great night.

The next day everyone (well, maybe not everyone) showed up freshly at the RSC to play some high quality handball!!!! Some games were won, others were lost, but most importantly we had a great day. Eventually Achilles from Apeldoorn (congrats to our ex-hastuid Kim) and Havana from the other side of the river took the first prize, which was a lavalamp.

Of course, this fantastic weekend could not exist without our amazing toeco. A big glittery thank you to the toeco and all referees!

HA-STU TOURNAMENT: THE DILEMMAS...

At this amazing tournament party, in which a lot of people got lost in space and time, a particularly interesting research masterpiece (if I may say so) was performed. For this very comprehensive in-depth interview, 32 people were interviewed. Those interviewed included mostly (old)Hastuïeds, but there were also a few stray Oktopussians among them. It is important to note that alcohol was (very probably) involved. So, the results should be interpreted with caution. Comprehensive statistics can be found below. A few remarkable points will now be discussed.

- At a party where space, rockets and marsmanneltjes were unmissable, there were still some non-believers. 20% of those being interviewed did not believe in outer-earth life. Shocking.
- If you celebrate your birthday and want to hand out chocolate; choose snickers, not mars.
- We have some very shiny and sparkly people here at Hastu: the big majority wants to have glitters on their food and glitters coming out of their mouth when they sneeze.
- Instead of being able to float around in space, Madita, Miret, Mirli and Pepijn want to go on a date with astronaut André Kuipers.
- To the question: 'How often do you think about Ha-Stu?' the answers were very varied, unpredictable and sometimes unwanted. As a true loyal Hastuïed, the answer could obviously not be less than '5x a day' as Jochem said, 'at least 3-4 times a week' as Jorn said (very specific, Jorn, thank you) or 'heeeel vaaaak' as Imke said. Troubling answers came from Madita: 'never', Niels '100 x never' (Imke, educate your boyfriend!!) and an Oktopusser who preferred to remain anonymous: 'less than 10 times a year'. Well, let's say only the real Hastuïeds didn't disappoint. On average, we fortunately still ended up with a steady 4 times a week.

PS: If you were not approached for this interview: answer the dilemmas yourself (on the next page) and see if your answers match those of your hastu friends.

COVERSTORY: PAASEI & PAASIJ TASTING

With easter just around the corner we thought we'd get a little in the mood. And during easter we experience Dutch culture at it's finest. As professional reviewers, we felt obliged to give you our unsalted opinion of the most exquisite easter eggs we could find in stores this year. To compliment this tasting we opted for the best lentebock ever: Paasij by Brouwerij 't IJ.

Tompouce paasei

Expectations: Hema's must try (however once and never again, like the Hema tompouce beer).

Smell: Hazelnutty ?

Taste: Not very tompoucy. Better combination than the tompouce beer.

Rate: Best lekker out of not really a tompouce. Very pretty on the inside. And the inside is what counts.

Pizza paasei

Expectations: Low. Very. Very low. However curious which pizza it is. Is it even vega?

Smell: Luckily not like cheese

Taste: like chocolaty quattro fromaggio. If you look closely, you can even find an "ita kru' mixed up in there. One of us felt like it if you close your eyes, forget the cheese, think about the salty taste like it's caramel and sea salt. All of the others firmly disagree.

Rating: Molded out of cheese.

Appelflap paasei

Expectations: Wonderful. HIGH expectations.

Smell: Like grandmother's kitchen on a sunday afternoon

Taste: You have to search for the appelflap, but if you pull through long enough then the appelflap taste will emerge in the end.

Rate: blij verrast out of bought it for my sweet co-editors

Puddingbroodje paasei

Expectations: Zompig with a smash of custard.

Smell: Like chocolate. like the others

Taste: A mix of emotions. There's pudding but (luckily) there's no broodje. It's like it's some vla inside a little bit of chocolate. Like vlaflip.

Rate: Prima out of kan beter maar kan ook slechter

Stroopwafel paasei

Expectations: Dutch

Smell: Same as the others

Taste: It's lekker but it is not stroopwafelly. Maybe more like stroopwafel ice cream (apparently that's a thing).

Rate: Not such a pretty wikkel. However, tolerable.

Wit framboos koekje

Expectations: Pink

Smell: Not pink

Taste: I enjoy the crisp of the knetter. Creamy. Happy feeling.

Rate: Nods yes. Says it all.

Coffee toffee paasei

Expectations: The name rolls good over the tongue. Which is a good start.

Smell: Very pure. Like someone just roasted a freshly harvested coffee bean and put it inside some devine milk chocolate.

Taste: Makes me happy. Like a fresh flat white with oat milk in the morning sun.

Rate: OMG out of the other options.

Conclusion:

Paasij is better than paasei. Drink paasij until the paasei tastes like the paasij. Surprisingly.

STROPDASSEN PUBCRAWL CARNAVAL 2024

On the 11th of February the very amazing yearly carnival “tie pub crawl” in Eindhoven took place. Fortunately for the lazy ones who had caught a late train, other busy bees had caught an early train and already picked up the ties. In the train the busy bees were busy indeed, with their amazing bee outfits. But if you ask Menno, they could all use a little upgrade. So the cardboard and markers came out of the bags and there the amazing quotes were born. Some amazing Dutch creativity (ahum) came to the amazing quotes: “wil je m’n honing likken’ en ‘bijzijn = meemaken’, it was awesome. In Eindhoven/lampegat/bijenkorf, some ladybees with queen bee were singing (really bee autifully) let it beeee, until Jorik opened the first beer pass-through train at the karaoke bar and the party could start. After 2 beertrains we encouraged some boys who wanted to climb a lamppost and we had a beautiful photoshoot with all the bees as expected from the pubcrawl.

After this the party was really starting, except for Julian. It took him another 5 beers to come alive (inkakken = Blijpakken). The bees buzzed through Eindhoven, until it became impossible to (1) get inside the pub with 30+ bees, (2) get 30+ beers to all of the bees and (3) without getting into any fights. We managed, until Mats became head of the ties. While Nick found the phone of Laura H. at Maastreeeeeeeg central station (shoutout to Nick) all the bees went robbing the local cafetaria to lay a bodem for the final 7 pubs. Sadly no honey was found, but the bees also like fried food. The bees reunited to continue partying. During the party, the bees were reconnected to an old Hastuïd beekeeper and some mario kart havana persons, which was a blast. With a few pubs left some old civil bees flew home and other younger bees went looking for other bees. Unfortunately Bijan could not live up to his motto "The later it gets the blonder it gets." But Carlijn and Frenk did have fun together, some bees told us.

ANOTHER MEETING - ANOTHER LENTIL EXPERIENCE

A low-carb moussaka, everyone's dream of course. No, not everyone, because half of the writers were not present. But a very good healthy basis for a very unhealthy Easter egg tasting. A delicious dessert for an actually quite tasty meal. The recipe was not followed, because it was a lot too Dutch; all the spices mentioned were pepper, garlic and yes you guessed it: salt.

Add lentils to the pan, add garlic, tomato sauce and then you have a stew. Then you are actually supposed to make a kind of lasagna. But you can also make the deconstructed version, like we did. Then you throw all your beautifully cut zucchini and eggplant slices into a pan. You call Eva to empty your spice cabinet over the sauce and vegetables, you wait and stir a little and then you have a pretty tasty meal. Put all this on a plate and throw some cottage cheese over it and you are completely happy.

Well and then you will be really happy because you can start your chocolate egg tasting. Happy easter.

Be sure to check out our review of these easter eggs first

👤 Tompous easter egg - You are not what you'd expect. At first, everyone thinks you're the it-girl, but there's more going on underneath. However, no one knows what. What is a fact is that you are the main character of every story - and we love you for it!

🍕 Pizza easter egg - You are known for trying to combine things that shouldn't be combined. Weird choices are your trademark. Some people might hate your taste, others might love it. You never know what the outcome will be, and that keeps it exciting!

🍪 White raspberry cookie - You're the sweet one out of the bunch. You are exactly what people expect of you. You'd never throw anyone under the bus. However, you're not really a fan of trying new things. Maybe it's time to get out of your comfort zone?

🐰 Coffee toffee - You have a little more experience in life. That makes you more decided, and also a lot more serious. Emotions are not for you and you depend on your rationality. It can get a little boring sometimes, so don't forget it might be good to spice up your life from time to time!
